BLANCHE SWEET

This Popular Actress Appears
At The Rex To day.

"The Case of Becky," in which Jesse L. Lasky presents Miss Blanche Sweet in the stellar role, is one of the greatest dramatic successes ever produced by David Belasco, by whose consent and sanction the picturization was made. Edward Locke is the author.

Miss Sweet is appearing exclusively in the photodrama productions by Jesse L. Lasky Feature Play Company. Following her recent triumphant success in "The Secret Orchard," she now appears in her most important production. In "The Case of

BLANCHE SWEET
"In The Case of Becky."

"Becky" Miss Sweet assumes a dual personality, that of a young woman stamped by pre-natal influence with two characters, one pleasing and happy, the other mean and vicious. These two personalities, in the one person, struggle against each other for mastery. Throughout the play is a theme of mysticism and hypnotism, subjects that are handled with all the skill and discretion at the command of the Lasky producing force.

Noted physicians and specialists are attracted by the strange "Case of Becky." In the end, through a combination of science and love's powerful might, the hated personality is conquered. The scenes of the play are modern; the characters, persons of today.

Witnessed Stirring Sights.

The last of the women who went to the Crimea with the Highland regiments died recently in Dundee, Scotland. Her husband was a sergeant. She possessed a remarkable memory, and could give a vivid description of her experiences. She kept the hut in which Sir Colin Campbell resided. From a distance she witnessed the storming of the heights of Alma on 20th of September, 1854, and was present at Balaklava with two other women belonging to the regiment. They were a little behind the spot occupied by Sir Colin Campbell and his staff, and in front of them was the famous "thin red line." She could recall the pleasure with which the soldiers regarded the coming of Miss Florence Nightingale and her nurses, and was herself for a time engaged in tending the wounded.

Great Deeds Call for Application.
He who would do some great thing in this short life must apply himself to the work with such concentration of his forces as to idle spectators, who live only to amuse themselves, looks like insanity.—Francis Parkman.

EGG SHIPMENTS

By Parcel Post Are Made Safer
By New Postal Order.

A new order, which goes into effect immediately, regarding the shipment of eggs by mail for hatching purposes, has been received by the post-office from headquarters in Washington. This new order is expected by postal authorities to reduce the losses of packages of eggs to a minimum.

The new order says that when eggs are wrapped separately and are surrounded by excelsior, that they will be accepted at any postoffice regardless of distance. All packages must be lined with paper or pasteboard so as to keep the contents from escaping. All such packages must be marked so that their contents may be known.

"Him" Didn't Stop Screams.

John McKinney, living in Shelby county, was in Shelbyville recently with friends. He became separated from them and they went home without him. It was too far for McKinney to walk, so he called up a cousin living in Shelbyville and asked for some money to pay for a night's lodging. The cousin told McKinney to go to his (the cousin's) home to spend the night.

John started out and found a house which he thought was the right one. He pounded on the door, but no one answered. Then he tried a window. He raised it and crawled through. He was greeted by the shrill scream of a woman, who was standing on a bed. John announced that she need not scream, for it was "him." "Him" didn't mean much to Miss Lulu Long. She continued her screaming. A brother came running into the room with a gun and McKinney soon had his hands stretched far above his head. Hearing the noise, the cousin, who lived next door to the Long home, rushed to the rescue and the situation was soon cleared.—Indianapolis News.

Willing to Be of Use.

"Now, hubby, I want to be helpful," said the bride. "Bless my little wife." "So if you have any coupons to be clipped you may turn that work over to me."—Louisville Courier-Journal.

TAHAN

Will Be The Next Lyceum
Number, Friday Night.

In the dress of an Indian Chief which he wears as a trophy of war, Tahan (Rev. Joseph K. Griffis) presents to Lyceum audiences in his lecture on "Things I Saw and Did While a Savage," one of the best if not altogether the most thrilling and intensely interesting, and at the same time instructive, life stories ever told by a human being. And not only has it an educational value, but it carries a moral and religious message as well. Tahan will be heard at the Tabernacle Friday night, March 10.

Not Room To Fall.

"I fought since the beginning of the war," says a soldier who has returned to Paris, and who was present at the fighting at Ornes. "I saw the shambles at Suippes and Houain. They were nothing to what I saw last week. The enemy advanced and we retired under orders, but we killed them by the dozen. It was so terrible that I, who have watched my comrades fall around me almost with indifference, shudder as my memory recalls those scenes.

"As their battalions advanced upon us they were in serried masses, by files of twenty. The sharpnet from our 75-millimetre guns and the projectiles from our heavy artillery fell among them, and you could see the great gaps, as if a mower had passed with a scythe. Then high explosive shells which burst on contact fell, and limbs shot into the air. We were so close that pieces of their torn flesh fell among us. Eventually we reached Moncourt and took shelter there for a time in a wood. Although it was three o'clock in the morning, the bursting shells made it as clear as day, giving the battlefield the aspect of a fairy scene.

"From behind us the French artillery fired into the German masses, the German shells flying over our heads toward the Douaumont section. Then our machine guns, placed in batteries every five yards, began to play, and we saw the dead in groups upright, where there was not room to fall.

Wanted It Done Over Again.
The teacher of the primary room was reprimanding one of the small boys for some misdemeanor on the playground. Just at the close of her remarks, Ralph came up to where they were standing and said: "Please will you scold him again, I didn't hear what you said."

Henderson Champion.

By defeating Somerset Saturday, Henderson basketball team won the championship of Kentucky high schools. Henderson beat seven teams in succession at Danville.

Immediately after the last game, Coach Leker and his team were presented with a beautiful loving cup and invited to represent the state of Kentucky in the Tri-State Tournament to be held in Athens, Ohio. The states to be represented will be Kentucky, Ohio and Indiana and the team will probably accept.

The team has two more scheduled games, one to be played here.

GOES ON NEVADA

Naval Surgeon Known Here Gets Coveted Assignment For Sea Duty.

Dr. Ralph T. Orvis, for the last two years in charge of the U. S. Naval Hospital at Brooklyn, N. Y., has been ordered to sea duty April 1 and assigned to the new battleship Nevada, which is expected to be ready to go into commission on that date. This is a very much desired assignment and Dr. Orvis has been highly honored. He has a number of friends here who will be glad to know that his lines have fallen in such pleasant places. Dr. and Mrs. Orvis visited their friends, Mr. and Mrs. Chas. M. Meacham, in this city, a little more than a year ago and are most pleasantly remembered.

Cleveland will shortly pay laborers on municipal work a minimum of $2.50 a day.
